- What platform would you be more likely to actively use this application?
 - Computer, because I am among the very few people who does not walk around with their smartphone because of its distraction ability.
 - I would prefer it if it were accessible through the internet so that no downloading is required.
- Are you concerned about who is using your data?
 - It really depends on the type of data; if it is my fitness data, I am fine with that being shared with anyone but GPS location data, I don't want that shared at all because I feel like that is an invasion of privacy. Also, I would not like medical information about my medical conditions, medications, doctor visits shared with anyone except those in the healthcare profession.
- Would you desire to limit what data they can collect?
 - Absolutely, as mentioned in my previous answer. I don't want medical information or real time GPS locations to be collected. In terms of smart home devices, I don't mind if that information is collected. I have nothing to hide.
- Would you find it convenient if there was a wallet or would you prefer direct deposit?
 - I would prefer direct deposit because, I could actually see it go into my actual account rather than fictional money/points.
- Would you like to track the data that you have already sold?
 - Yes, but I don't want to constantly updated as to who is using it. Maybe occasional updates but I would definitely like to see a list of all the data I sold.
- Would you want to have a trending page for data sold?
 - No, because I feel like a trending page would violate some people's privacy and this view would make me feel like I am using some type of social media when in reality it should be taken more seriously and discretely.
- How would you want the application to filter recommendations?
 - Perhaps based on my search criterias. I would only want the application to display data that I choose to see.

- How would you want to negotiate selling your data?
→ I can't think of specifics but I wouldn't like a messaging system like Facebook's messenger or even sharing phone numbers. I would picture more as a formal negotiation process which involves electronics forms and agreements.
- How would you want to negotiate buying data?
→ Again, I would want to have a formal buyer's agreement detailing the reason for the purchase and to what means will the data be used for. The seller will see this and determine whether to pursue the transaction or halt all proceedings.
- How would you want us to display the data you have purchased?
→ I would like it to be present to me in the form of a list, graphs, charts, csv that gives what was purchased, from who and the ability to see more details about said purchase by clicking on it.
- How would you want us to collect your data?(input, through usage)
→ I would like it to be through input because I would like to have control over it. The last thing I want is for my data to be secretly collected without my permission or knowledge.

- What platform would you be more likely to actively use this application?
 - Mobile without a doubt
 - Avid mobile user, iOS user
- Are you concerned about who is using your data?
 - Yes, I would like to know why and for what my data will be used and definitely by who.
- Would you desire to limit what data they can collect?
 - Yes, I would like to have a say on what data is collected. Only data I am comfortable sharing is what I would like to be collected.
- Would you find it convenient if there was a wallet or would you prefer direct deposit?
 - I would prefer a wallet just because I would like to choose when I withdraw my money.
- Would you like to track the data that you have already sold?
 - Yes, I would simply like to see what I sold and if it's being used appropriately.
- Would you want to have a trending page for data sold?
 - No, trending page but perhaps suggestions of data that could be bought or sold.
- How would you want the application to filter recommendations?
 - I would like to customize the filter for recommendations
- How would you want to negotiate selling your data?
 - I would prefer if only certified registered buyers could access the application or register as buyers.
- How would you want to negotiate buying data?
 - I think having a formal agreement would be appropriate for this type of application
- How would you want us to display the data you have purchased?
 - I would want it displayed in a way that conforms to the seller's request, meaning only information that the seller want to be displayed will be.
- How would you want us to collect your data?(input, through usage)
 - Input data

- How would you want to negotiate buying data?

What platform would you be more likely to actively use this application?1 response

None, honestly. Would most probably be a separate website where I connect my other accounts to if I feel like partaking in this buying/selling.

Are you concerned about who is using your data?1 response

Yes

Would you desire to limit what data they can collect?1 response

Yes

As a seller, would you find it convenient if there was a wallet or would you prefer direct deposit?1 response

Wallet

Would you find it convenient if there was a wallet or would you prefer direct deposit?1 response

Direct DepositWallet100%

Would you like to track the data that you have already sold?1 response

Yes

Would you want to have a trending page for data sold?1 response

Indifferent. Could help determine what type of data is currently selling, but I have to want to sell that type of data (so potentially of no use to me if it's not what I'm interested in sharing).

How would you want the application to filter recommendations?1 response

I guess who I'm selling it to. Some companies I wouldn't mind selling to and others I would never want to sell to.

How would you want to negotiate selling your data?1 response

Buyer has to be transparent with their needs and list out what they need. I think it everything should be at single data field level. Check boxes checked for data I don't mind selling, unchecked not to be sold. I deem what I'm comfortable sharing based on what the buyer needs basically.

How would you want to negotiate buying data?1 response

I think there should be differing prices for different use cases.

Ex: Scientific research/advancement would cost less than those buying it for marketing purposes.

Status as well.

Ex: Student vs Company

Etc.

How would you want us to display the data you have purchased?1 response

Most probably a purchases page where I can download any of my purchases in an excel file (would be best for data analysis).

How would you want us to collect your data?(input, through usage) 1 response

Linking accounts from other platforms if I feel like it to this separate new one.
